On the occasion of Sicam 2022, Zerica will present a series of innovations that aim to simplify life in the kitchen by focusing on the combination of technology and sustainability. In Pordenone (Italy), the company, which designs and manufactures a wide range of products distributed by I&D, will bet on the future and the interconnected kitchen. Among the latest proposals, there is the i-Wall line in the Touch and Button versions. These products allow user to have very pure water in the fresh, sparkling and room temperature variants. The Button model has three simple buttons for the different functions, while the Touch version has a latest generation color touchscreen that allows user to adjust the water temperature and fill glasses and jugs with great ease. In addition to ensuring customization, thanks to the possibility of choosing the size of the portions, the Internet connection also offers the ability to manage and monitor the system remotely with Auxilia, the app created by Zerica. Other products offered by the company are: Supra Button (the new version of the countertop water dispenser for the home) and You (under-counter cooler with Silver Turbo Clean refrigeration system).
